On the Dedicatory Letter of Machiavelli's Discourses on Livy is a 2,200-word comment on the dedicatory letter that Niccolò Machiavelli wrote to accompany the Discourses on the First Decade of Titus Livy. The author examines the text of the dedicatory letter almost word by word, accepting Machiavelli's own request that one take this present and always consider "the intention of the sender more than the qualities of the thing sent." Always looking for indications of higher meaning in what Machiavelli says to his two friends and patrons to whom he addresses his Discourses on Livy, the author finds a surprising pattern hinting at a coming conflict in "the rest of the history."

On the Dedicatory Letter of Machiavelli's Discourses on Livy is of possible special interest to readers with interests in modernity, political philosophy, and religion.
